

Canadian Journal of Cardiology ■ (2023) 1

Erratum

Erratum to “The Tale of Two Valves: Role of the Ross Procedure for Aortic Stenosis in Young Adults” [Can J Cardiol (2022):1469].

Q1 Regarding “The Tale of Two Valves: Role of the Ross Procedure for Aortic Stenosis in Young Adults” by Chen et al., published in the September 2022 issue (Can J Cardiol 2022;38:1469): following the final acceptance of this paper, during the proof correction phase, the authors added 3 references that were not in the final approved article and that contravened journal guidelines for Letters to the Editor articles. Accordingly, the following 3 references are withdrawn from the article:

1. Chen L, Salim Hammoud M, Jiang M, Bakir N, Karamlou T. Age- and sex-matched controls should not be the standard for the Ross procedure. JTCVS

Open 2022. <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.xjon.2022.05.015>.

2. Chen L, Salim Hammoud M, Mahboubi R, Karamlou T. Pulmonary conduit reoperation following the Ross procedure. Eur J Cardiothorac Surg 2022. <https://doi.org/10.1093/ejcts/ezac267>.

3. Chen L, Salim Hammoud M, Ghandour H, Frankel WC, Karamlou T. Risk of endocarditis extension in Ross reintervention with transcatheter pulmonary valve replacement. J Am Coll Cardiol 2022;79:e457.

The withdrawn references have been removed in the online version of the article.